Excerpted from [http://www.ugandamission.org/ugandan\_church\_history\_window.html]

The Church of Uganda dates to the arrival in June 1877 of the first European missionaries of the Church Missionary Society (CMS), Shergold Smith and C T Wilson. These men, soon joined by others, were based at the court of the Kabaka (ruler) of Buganda near what is now Kampala.

Bishop Alfred Tucker arrived in Uganda in 1890. In 1897 he became the first Bishop of Uganda carved out of the vast and ill-defined Diocese of Eastern Equatorial Africa. It was in this last decade of the nineteenth century that the shape of the Church of Uganda was formed. In 1893 the first Ugandans were ordained deacon; Tucker was committed to developing an indigenous ministry. Buganda became a centre for evangelisation in the Great Lakes region.

Evangelisation in Uganda was from the beginning allied with education. The first Christians were known as Readers. They were evangelised through being taught to read using the New Testament. In the 1890's the missions developed the first schools at an elementary level. Likewise the CMS took a lead in medicine with the founding of Mengo Hospital in 1897. Sir Albert Cook and his formidable wife Kathleen were towering figures in the development of medical mission in Uganda.

The first decade of the twentieth century saw great numerical growth of the church in Uganda in the context of tighter political control of British authorities. Within the church there was controversy over Bishop Tucker's proposals for a constitution which would give considerable power to what was known as the Native Anglican Church. Missionary opposition to more radical proposals meant the establishment of a church hierarchy dominated by expatriate missionaries. This decade saw the first establishment of the Mothers Union, which has been central to the Church of Uganda ever since.

After 1910 the Church of Uganda extended further into the north-west and into the south-west of the country. Africa Inland Mission was invited to participate in the north and agreed to do so under the umbrella of the Anglican Church. This was a unique arrangement for AIM, and was the first instance of the generous hospitality of the Church of Uganda to mission partners from non-Anglican agencies.

This was a relatively quiet period for steady growth and establishment of missionary stations, schools and clinics of a Protectorate church under missionary control. Bishop Tucker Theological College was established in 1920 in Mukono as the seminary of the Church of Uganda.

In 1961 the growth of the Church of Uganda was recognised in the Anglican Communion with the establishment of the Province of Uganda, Rwanda-Burundi with Leslie Brown as the first Archbishop, based at Namirembe in Kampala. Brown was succeeded in 1966 by the first Ugandan Archbishop, Erica Sabiti.

The Church of Uganda archives at UCU are a segment of a much larger whole. Additional COU records can be found at Makerere University, at Diocesan Offices, Cathedrals, Parishes, and among the archives of its founding agency, the Church Missionary Society. Early records of CMS Mission/NAC at Makerere University were sent there by the Church in the early 1960s.

This record group forms part of a group of archives records received at UCU from The Church of Uganda Provincial Secretariat. Other Church of Uganda archives held at UCU include Record Group No. 2 - Education Secretary General – CMS/NAC; Record Group No. 3 - General Secretary – CMS/NAC; and Record Group No. 4 - Financial Secretary. These record groups primarily document the period after the Church of Province of Uganda was established in 1961. The General Secretary acted as administrator for the Bishop, and education was an important focus of the CMS/NAC, so all the records groups documenting the CMS/NAC era should be consulted when pursuing a topic.

These records were received from the Provincial Secretariat in a somewhat disorganized state. An important preliminary inventory of the records had been completed by Uganda Christian University Head Librarian, Mr. Fredrick Mukungu in 1999 but more thorough processing of the archives revealed disorder within the files. Every attempt has been made to keep records produced by a particular office together. (Bishop's Office, ESG Office, General Office, Finance Office).

The series created within each record group represent an attempt to categorize the records of the Office in a manner that reveals the various aspects of its work.

Series I of RG1, Administrative/Governing Bodies, is divided into eight sub-series: Church Missionary Society, Dioceses, Rural Deaneries, Province of East Africa, Synods, Personnel, Historical Documents and Statistics, and Meetings/Events.

Series I as a whole provides an overview of the work of the CMS Uganda Mission from the 1920s and documents the gradual transfer of power from the CMS to the Native Anglican Church. The first three sub-series represent the central administration, the development of a regional structure, and the governance and operations of the Deaneries that existed within the regions. There was originally one Diocese, The Uganda Diocese, then, Diocese of the Upper Nile was created in 1926; as the work grew there were continual realignments

Series I consists primarily of correspondence between the Bishop of Uganda and the various individuals who represented the CMS and NAC bodies, as well as minutes and reports of the committees and bodies that are noted. These materials should be consulted in conjunction with other available COU records in RG2: Education Secretary General – CMS/NAC; RG3: General Secretary – CMS/NAC; RG4: Financial Secretary. RG5: Archbishops; RG6: Provincial Secretary; RG7: Provincial Programmes.

A fascinating variety of topics are documented by the files, including interaction with Roman Catholic missions and Islam. The training for clergy, issues related to marriage and polygamy, translation work, youth work, women's work, etc. As time goes on, an increasing number of documents are in vernacular languages.

Series II, General File, contains primarily correspondence of the Bishop and his files on a variety of topics.

Series III, Central Program Units/Activities, contains documentation of activities that were coordinated centrally.

Series IV, Regional Activities, documents educational work in surrounding regions and complements other records in RG2, the Education Secretary General Office.

Series V, Publications/Writings, includes issues of the Uganda Diocesan Gazette and Uganda Church Review, a list of books written on Uganda by CMS missionaries, and other publications.

Series VI, Legal/Financial Records contains marriage certificates of missionaries in Uganda, documentation of land issues, and a small amount of financial material. Additional documentation from this era is contained in RG 4, Financial Secretary.
