

This fall, you are cordially invited to explore the renovated learning spaces of the Cross Campus and Sterling Memorial Libraries, where collections, technology, and expert assistance converge to create new learning environments:

- Contact familiar library staff to place your course reserve list.
- Explore an unfamiliar topic in an easy-to-browse core collection of 150,000 volumes.
- Meet with students or librarians in one of 14 rooms equipped with plasma screens and computer equipment.
- Retreat to one of 44 quiet individual study rooms.
- Connect to wireless network access, data, and power outlets throughout the library.
- Consult with faculty support experts to explore pedagogical techniques and instructional technologies.
- Utilize Self-Service Multi-Media stations to prepare a lecture.
- Take a break or meet a colleague in the informal study lounge with café service.
- Schedule an appointment with a librarian or curator for consultation about collections and opportunities for research.

For more information:

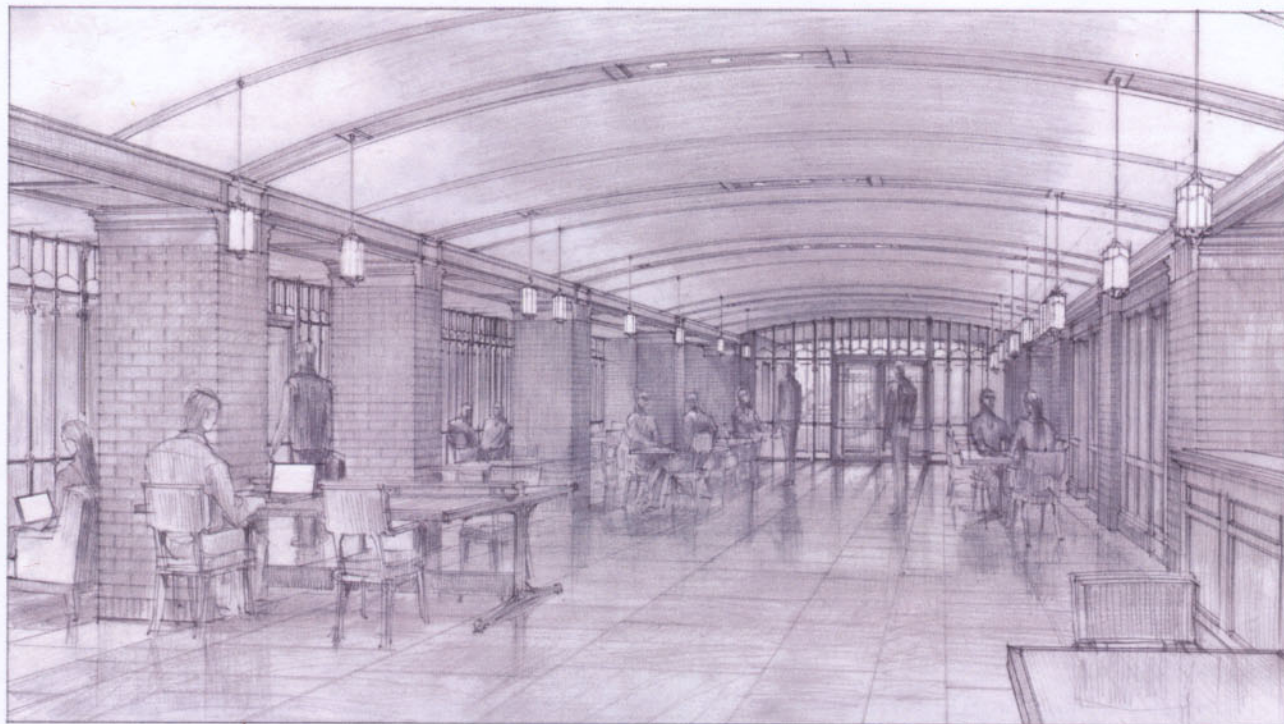

<http://www.library.yale.edu/renovaxn/phase2a/index.html>

Danuta A. Nitecki, Associate University Librarian, Danuta.Nitecki@yale.edu

Robert Daigle, Library Project Manager, Robert.Daigle@yale.edu

Reopening in Fall 2007:

The new Cross Campus Library

Architects' rendering of the study lounge and café space, Hammond, Beeby, Rupert, Ainge, Inc. 6/2005